

The WEEK

By A. M. BRAYTON

THE 44 conference met according to schedule June 1, adopted a platform, nominated a ticket, and adjourned. Now everyone is talking about it, and comment ranges from high praise to bitter condemnation. The state ticket is composed as follows:

For governor, William J. Morgan; lieutenant governor, Riley Young; secretary of state, Martin Paulson; treasurer, Henry Johnson; attorney general, John Parker.

Dr. Arthur Campbell, president of Carroll college, Waukesha, was endorsed for the United States senatorship.

The platform will not strike many people as an important document. It contained rather platitudinous statements about the ordinary domestic issues, but did not deal with them with sufficient detail to make its declaration definite. The reason for this may be obvious. Possibly it was because the platform conference did not feel authorized to make specific platform promises which might not be in accord with the platform promises later to be made by the official platform committee of the party.

One plank endorsed President Harding and his administration. There was much objection to this, even among strong friends of the president. It was argued that it would prevent independent support from rallying to the ticket.

However, the conference platform was not a handicap to candidates coming before the primary, for it is a liberty to set up a platform of his own. No doubt Mr. Morgan has very definite ideas about state government, will do so. Perhaps Mr. Campbell, too, may have something to say for himself.

Final deliberations had been resumed there were still some people in Wisconsin who suspected that the 44 conference was a packed convention run by some sinister gang who pushed the button in a back room. Every experienced politician knows that it was nothing of the sort. It wobbled through its affairs by main strength and awkwardness with the result that the ticket which it presents lacks all semblance of that political cooperation which the skilled politician demands. It does not contain the name of a farmer, or a German or a Catholic. Shrewd politicians may avoid publicly discussing these things, but they know that they have psychological importance. That is one reason why some La Follette leaders are chuckling at the political situation. Their back-up primary makes no such mistakes.

But we are fighting bosses this year and such a ticket could have been nominated if sufficient evidence that there is no boss back of the ticket. Perhaps politically spirited citizens who in some group sense may have been neglected will not be impatient of the mistakes of unbeset democracy.

There was from the outset no doubt about Mr. Morgan. The afterthought of the outstanding figure of the conference. He is not a Lincoln. Probably he never will be a Lincoln. But he is of the type from which the right combination of circumstances and experience makes a Lincoln. He is fearless, and his sincerity can never be doubted.

For two days the battle raged for the gubernatorial nomination. From the outset it was the field against Mr. Morgan. Many stories were circulated about "interests" seeking to defeat his nomination. No doubt there was something in this. A man who has been fighting illegal combinations and left for nearly two years as hardly expect an unobstructed endorsement.

But for the most part the opposition was that of a good sort of citizen who had political ambition. They wanted the nomination because the chances of victory seemed good. There was a regular scramble for it, and they did more or less pooling against Mr. Morgan merely because he was the strongest candidate.

The thing about Mr. Morgan, that impressed people most was his brief speech of acceptance. It contained three paragraphs—four sentences. It acknowledged the honor conferred, it recognized and accepted the responsibility, and it pledged untiring effort. Of the honor and responsibility it said:

"I believe God will make it possible for me to be worthy of it."

Is that sense there was a ring of the "angelic"? In it was the promise of something for which we are always waiting. We may trample our own rights under foot, but we want leaders whose spirituality takes them above the sordid side of the political game. Morgan is one of these. His honesty is in the right direction. He is refreshingly honest. Repeatedly he has said things which complacent politicians regarded as dangerous. It is a common notion that where the truth would seem to cost votes, the truth should be ignored. Morgan decides whether a thing is true, if it is true.

BRITISH TROOPS POUR INTO BELFAST; AIRPLANE FLEET ALSO ON THE WAY

BLAINE TO SPEAK IN SALZER CHURCH NEXT SATURDAY

Governor to be Guest of Men's League of Church on Arrival Here

PUBLIC INVITED TO HEAR SPEECH ON POLITICAL TOPICS

To Address Luther League Convention in Myrick Park Sunday

GOVERNOR John J. Blaine will make his first public appearance in La Crosse at a meeting to be held at 5 o'clock Saturday night, June 10th, in the Salzer Memorial church, Seventh and Ferry streets.

The governor, prior to the public meeting in the church auditorium, will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given under the auspices of the Men's League of the Salzer church and to which, in addition to the League membership, will be invited some of the city's most prominent men.

It was originally planned to have Governor Blaine for the Men's League dinner only but after many requests that citizens at large be given an opportunity to hear the state's chief executive the Men's League arranged its plans to make this possible.

To Address Luther League

Governor Blaine, who is to address the Luther League convention with an address at Myrick park Sunday, will arrive in La Crosse shortly before 6 o'clock Saturday night. He will be met by a committee of local citizens and escorted to the Salzer church for the dinner.

Immediately following the dinner, which is to be held in the church parlors, he will proceed to the auditorium where the mass meeting is to be held.

Governor Blaine, at the public meeting, will be introduced by the Rev. J. L. Panzian, pastor of the Salzer Memorial church.

Governor Blaine has never before addressed a public gathering here and because of the widespread interest in his appearance, his appearance here will be a landmark in the city's history. He will be a purely church affair but that his address will be on public and political affairs.

HIGBEE JAILS GENOA COUPLE FOR CONTEMPT

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alexander are Taken in Custody by Sheriff Gorslin of Viroqua

LAWRENCE BRODY TO APPEAL CASE TO THE SUPREME COURT

Couple Failed to Turn Over Deed of Farm to Purchaser

Held in contempt of court by Judge Higbee in circuit court Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alexander of Genoa were taken in custody by Sheriff Gorslin of Viroqua and were taken to the Vernon county jail.

They will be held in custody until they comply with the court's orders, that they turn over a deed to their farm to John A. Phillips, to whom they sold the place.

At a previous hearing of the action brought by Phillips against the Alexanders, the court ruled that the Alexanders should assume the $2,000 mortgage on the farm because Phillips had received no notification that there was an indebtedness against the place at the time he made the deal to buy the place.

The Alexanders were ordered to turn the deed to the farm over to Phillips and the hearing Saturday afternoon was on this order. Alexander and his wife were held in contempt of court when it was shown that they had not complied with the court's order.

Lawrence J. Brody represented Mr. and Mrs. Alexander. Mr. Brody plans to appeal the case to the supreme court and to file a bond for the release of the Alexanders pending action in the higher court.

VALENTINO, ROMANTIC FILM HERO, TO KNOW MONDAY WHETHER HE FACES JURY

LOS ANGELES.—Rodolph Valentino, hero of many film romances, will know next Monday whether he must face a jury on a charge of bigamy.

Justice of the Peace Hanby announced Saturday at the conclusion of the actor's preliminary hearing on charges that Valentino married Miss Winifred Hudnut at Mexico, Lower California, and afterward lived with her at Palm Springs, Calif., while he still was legally married to Miss Jean Acker.

Whether Justice Hanby will bind Valentino over to the Los Angeles superior court for trial or dismiss the complaint, depends upon his interpretation of the California statutes upon which the district attorney's office based the charge against the actor.

It was contended by Deputy District Attorney Costello that the fact Valentino and his second wife lived in the same cottage at Palm Springs for three days following their marriage warranted holding the defendant for trial. W. I. Gilbert, representing Valentino, argued that no evidence showing marital relations had been produced. Both cited decisions they contended sustained their points.

Frank James, attorney for the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, attacked the validity of the measure on the ground that the acts charged by the prosecution did not constitute bigamy.

The arguments followed testimony by Dr. Floretta White, physician of Palm Springs, that she attended the marriage at Mexico and that the couple stayed at her cottage at the Springs that night. Mrs. Valentino was ill, she testified, and asked to have a room by herself and Valentino and Douglas Gerard, groomsmen at the wedding, were assigned to another room.

Mr. Costello said he had been unable to serve a subpoena issued for Mme. Alla Nazimova, Russian actress, to appear at the hearing. Dr. White testified that he understood Mme. Nazimova was stopping at a cottage in which the Valentinos passed a night during their stay at Palm Springs. The prosecutor said he had been informed Mme. Nazimova left for New York Friday.

BITTER CONTROVERSY IS SEEN ON FORD'S MUSCLE SHOAL PLAN

Proposal to Develop Vast Power and Nitrate Project Approved by Committee

REPRESENTATIVES OF FORD ARE PLEASED WITH PROGRESS MADE

Federal Expert Favors Norris Plan for Government Operation

WASHINGTON.—Henry Ford's proposal to develop the government's vast power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, was given conditional approval by the house military committee Saturday and ordered reported to the house with a recommendation that it be accepted in the form agreed to in committee. The action was taken by a vote of 12 to 9, in executive session, and was interpreted by committee members generally as being in effect but the preliminary skirmish to a bitterly contested battle between the proponents and opponents of the Ford offer in the house.

Gorga Plant Eliminated

In arriving at its final decision, the committee decided to eliminate from the properties covered in the Ford offer the steam plant at Gorgas, Alabama, and agreed with W. B. Mayo and J. W. Worthington, representatives of the Detroit manufacturer, upon new language regulating the manufacture of fertilizers. In all other respects the Ford offer was fully approved.

Mr. Mayo declared when advised of the committee action that despite elimination of the Gorgas plant he regarded the result as announced as a decisive victory for Mr. Ford and that before now would be made to obtain the properties. To agree upon every detail involved in the negotiations, except one, was a distinct achievement. Mr. Mayo added, particularly since the discussions had been extended so long—more than a year since they were first begun at the war department. He expressed warm appreciation for the "courteous and conscientious work done by the committee."

Asks Wilson Dam Report

Two other developments in congress affecting Muscle Shoals occurred while the committee was in session. The house instructed its conferees on the army appropriation bill to report back to it what decision they reached with the senate on the amendment providing $7,500,000 for continuation of work on the Wilson dam, so that a separate vote might be had.

In the senate agriculture committee, Oscar C. Merrill, executive officer of the federal power commission, testified that the Muscle Shoals projects should be completed and put in operation, preferably by private enterprise. If the government decided to operate the properties Mr. Merrill said he believed the bill by Senator Norris of Nebraska, chairman of the committee, probably offered the best method of dealing with the projects.

The house committee also decided to meet again Monday to prepare a report citing its opinion of the Ford and other proposals which will be submitted to the house membership when the Ford offer is presented, probably early next week. In all probability the committee will advocate the acceptance of Mr. Ford's tender with the Gorgas plant included.

QUIET PREVAILS IN RACE RIOT REGION AT KIRVIN, TEXAS

KIRVIN, Texas.—By The Associated Press.—Practically normal conditions prevailed again in and near Kirvin Saturday. Rumors of possible race riots and clashes of white and negroes continued, but were discounted. Many men who were armed Saturday and laid aside their weapons and most of the crowds which came here from adjoining counties and nearby cities had gone home. Many of the negroes were reported to have left their homes, to keep out of the possible zones. Bodies of Allie and Leroy Gibson, negroes, killed in a fight with officers Friday, are in the possession of relatives, it was said.

MINNESOTA PLANNING WAR ON CRIMINATES

State Crime Commission, at First Meeting Proposes Swift and Sure Punishment for Crooks

CHIEF JUSTICE BROWN URGES END TO DELAYS IN TRIALS

Committees are Named to Study Crime Wave and Plan Checks on Situation

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Initial action in the study and prevention of crime in the state was taken at a meeting of the recently named Minnesota crime commission, when that body appointed five committees to carry on the work, at a meeting Saturday in senate chamber of the capitol.

The meeting, presided over by Chief Justice Calvin L. Brown, of the state supreme court, was called by Governor J. A. O. Preus to make a study of crime and to effect some means of stemming the menace.

Urges Swift Punishment

In the opening address before the commission, Governor Preus said that the purpose of the state commission is to make punishment of criminals swift and certain. As a means to gaining this end, the governor suggested that a state police system would materially aid in the capture of criminals over the state, and would probably be the only means of coping with the situation.

"When criminals find out that in this state, when a crime is committed the culprit will be apprehended with almost absolute certainty, quickly tried and committed and rarely and only in extreme cases as at present, extended clemency, then and only then, will our people be safe, Governor Preus said.

Aid for Prosecutors

Chief Justice Brown urged that the Minnesota statutes be amended in such manner which will give the prosecuting attorneys aid in bringing the culprits to a speedy justice, thereby discouraging to the criminal in his views that he can prolong conviction and sentence.

An executive committee with four sub-committees were appointed by President Brown, which will make a study of various phases of the crime situation and plan some means whereby this wave can be stemmed. The executive committee will receive the reports of the four sub-committees and will meet subject to the call of the president, when a full report will be made to the commission as a whole. Members of the committees nor the president of the commission gave any indication when this call would be issued.

The executive committee appointed include: Executive committee—Chief Justice Brown, St. Paul; Attorney General C. L. Hilton, St. Paul; state statutes—Judge William A. Cant, Duluth; punishments and parole system—Mrs. David F. Simpson, Minneapolis; law delays and remedies—Judge A. H. C. Johnson, Anoka; Judge Charles W. Stanton, Bemidji; Warren Greene, Duluth; Bureau records—F. A. Whittier, Stillwater.

TWO NEW ASPIRANTS FOR SHERIFF RAISE FIELD TO QUARTET

Emil Kabat, Supervisor of Eighteenth Ward, and C. J. Jacobs Out

WITH announcements from Emil Kabat and C. J. Jacobs that they would contest the republican nomination for sheriff, the field of aspirants to the office has now increased to four.

Kabat and Jacobs went under the wire together Saturday. The former is a former service man, now county board member from the Eighteenth ward. He said his nomination papers would be circulated next week.

Mr. Kabat was 18 months in the army, seven of which were spent overseas. Shortly after his return, he campaigned for county supervisor and was elected with little opposition. Undersheriff Lund and Carl Brzousky, Tenth ward constable, also have announced their candidacies for the office of sheriff.

C. J. Jacobs, 1203 Badger street, the other candidate who came out Saturday, has been a resident here for 40 years. He is now employed as engineer of the Hogan School.

In announcing his candidacy Mr. Jacobs said he was 100 per cent American and a law abiding citizen and felt competent to administer the affairs of the office of sheriff in an efficient manner if the voters of the county were gracious enough to elect him.

Mr. Jacobs' nomination papers are now being circulated.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP AT TREMPPELEAU TO OPEN ON JUNE 13

Elaborate Plans Made for Outings for Local Boys at Handsome Summer Resort

The ninth Summer Boys' Camp season of the La Crosse Y. M. C. A. will be held on beautiful Trempealeau Bay about three miles from the village of Trempealeau. The location is exceptional as every boy knows who has ever camped there, and there is no better place for fishing anywhere along the Mississippi river. The natural layout of the camp affords the finest opportunity for athletic sports for camps in a big field located just back of where the tents will be pitched. There are two swimming holes, one being shallow for beginners while the other is deeper for the expert swimmer.

The camp will be housed in 14x16 sleeping tents, seven boys and a leader to each tent. Cold Medal sleeping cots are being provided. There will be a 12x16 screened-in kitchen where food will be prepared under the most sanitary conditions and the dining tent will be adjacent to it, being 16x24 feet in size. A competent cook will be in charge of the culinary department and the menu calls for plenty of good wholesome food.

The camp will be under the direction of A. H. Whittredge, boys' work secretary of the La Crosse Y. M. C. A., and T. B. Purney, physical director of the La Crosse Y. M. C. A. will be in charge of the physical activities. They will be assisted by young men who will serve as tent leaders including Oswald Gunderson, Forrest Russell and Tom Reay.

Visitors will be most welcome at the camp at any time, and meals will be served to them provided sufficient notice is given. The camp is run under the auspices of the boys' work department of the Y. M. C. A. but is by no means limited to members of the "Y." Any boy may make application and be enrolled in the camp.

The entire camp program is planned for the purpose of developing boys in an all around manner, physically, socially, mentally and morally and is known as the "square" program of the "Y." Suitable emblems and awards will be made to each boy who participates in this program and who reaches a reasonable standard and who by his camp life shows himself to have the real spirit of the camp. The Y. M. C. A. camp will respond to the desire of every boy to get back to nature in her primitive surroundings and provide at the same time an opportunity for Christian character development. This "square" program is one of the most comprehensive and most valuable of trainings which can come to boys.

BRAINS OF RUSSIA ARE DYING DECLARES RETURNED AMERICAN

Government Really Trying to Further Education, But Supplies and Food are Lacking

LONDON.—The Soviet government is really trying to further education in Russia, but because of the lack of supplies and above all the lack of food, "the brains of Russia are dying at present," says E. T. Colton, of Montreal, N. J., who has just returned from Moscow, where he was the Young Men's Christian Association representative on the staff of the American Relief Administration. Mr. Colton's work was confined to investigating conditions among professors and students with a view to affording them A. R. A. relief. This was subsequently given.

"There are more bona fide students in Russia now than there were before the war," Mr. Colton said. "There are many more women students than men even in the mining schools. They are short of all supplies from text books to laboratory instruments. Moreover the professors, most of whom were on the verge of starvation, had no energy left to do research or creative work. Consequently Russian education is not what it was."

It was Mr. Colton who drew up the feeding program for from 7,500 to 10,000 Russian students which the A. R. A. initiated in Moscow, Petrograd and Kazan. It is confined to the two higher classes of university students, a great number of whom are mature men and women, because they abandoned their studies in 1914 to go into war or war work in some form.

"We chose these," Mr. Colton explained, "because they will get soonest into the productive life of Russia."

We couldn't possibly feed all, with our resources."

One curious thing about the Russian universities is that most of them now function at night, for a great percentage of the students work during the day in order to earn some money.

"There have been many famines deaths among professors and students," Mr. Colton declared. "There will probably be many more, because there can be no question but that as a class they are suffering."

A MITCHELL WHITE STREAK IS COMING

greatly. For the professors to do creative work under present conditions is out of the question. The miracle is that they can work at all, and unless help comes to them quickly, the best brains of Russia will die for lack of food."

Route 11 is one of the main touring trunk lines of the state. La Crosse has always counted itself fortunate to have this highway running through. But it is a well-known fact that at certain seasons of the year—and they make an uncomfortably large segment of the year at that—Route 11 is no more passable to traffic than La Crosse marsh. Most of its distance in these parts this highway is a smooth, well-surfaced thoroughfare, passable in almost any weather. But just as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a highway is no better than its worst half-mile. And there are some half-miles on Route 11 around La Crosse which in spring and fall are practically bottomless.

There's a movement on foot to have the worst part between Elfrick and Blair permanently improved. Every resident of La Crosse should be behind that movement stronger than horseshoe. We ought to be behind every such movement that looks to the improvement of the belt of bad road which surrounds La Crosse on every side, and which makes our own expenditure in building fine roads in La Crosse county profitless in large degree. Every time we get a chance to hit a lick for improvement on main state lines which carry tourist traffic we ought to swing hard and heavy. For the millions we have spent on good roads won't pay us adequate returns until it is possible for tourists to get to them without risking springs and being hauled out of mudholes.

The bad spots are largely outside of this county. La Crosse can't often do much, directly, to encourage their repair. In this case our backing has been solicited. In this issue, therefore, will be found a story of what is doing in Trempealeau county in regard to the stretch of Route 11 through Bear Creek Valley. With it is a coupon, through which every resident may add his influence to the movement to have this stretch put into permanently passable condition.

Not Dead by Considerable

It is with considerable pleasure that we discover that Senator Calder of New York was no more right in his latest statement about the Great Lakes Waterway than he had been theretofore. Canada, it is authoritatively declared, has not rejected the proposal of Secretary Hughes for a treaty under which the canal and power development might be undertaken, but has merely laid it over until the end of parliament June 20, for consideration when the more instant business of the session is out of the way. That sounds much more credible than the flat turn-down which was at first reported. After all, the Canadian problem is very much the same as ours in regard to getting the products of her great inland agricultural region to market. The backbone of Canada is just north of the backbone of the United States, in the same relation to ocean traffic as is our own region of the middle west. Anything that will bring ocean freighters to the Canadian ports on the great lakes means as much to the wheat growers of Saskatchewan as it does to the corn belt of Iowa or the wheat regions of the Dakotas. Canada will not turn down the possibility of getting these regions out of bondage to long-haul railroads and distant port charges; not at least without a roar of the same general sort that would arise in northern Mississippi Valley if Washington were to turn it down. It may take some time to get the project launched, but there is no present reason to fear that it will be dropped. New York, after all, is not the most important part of the continent. It is only the most self-important.

How to Get Killed

WHENEVER you use a ladder, remember that it is the most dangerous device in existence. Ladders continue to cause more accidents than anything else. This is shown by insurance experts' latest check-up of fatal and non-fatal casualties. Every minute of the day and night, twenty-three Americans are seriously injured by accidents. In the last four years, accidents killed or injured more Americans than the total killed on both sides in the World War. Human deaths by accidents in the United States average around 60,000 a year, or 165 a day, according to the census.

You are, of course, "afraid of getting injured." And of what are you most afraid? Autos, probably. Yet, for each sixty-seven people killed by autos, sixty-eight are burned to death, eighty-six die in railroad accidents, fifty-six are drowned, twenty-six die in mines, thirty-four are asphyxiated by gas, twenty-one are killed around machinery, twenty-three by street cars, twenty-three by bicycles and horse-drawn vehicles. And, topping the list, 111 are killed by falls—from ladders, out of windows, down elevator shafts or slipping on icy sidewalks that could be made safe by a sprinkling of ashes. Read those figures a second time, record them indelibly in your brain, and you'll know what to be careful of unless you want to meet the undertaker.

Nearly all accidents are the result of carelessness—taking needless chances in the face of danger. Obviously, then, nearly all accidents could be prevented. The prevention of accidents, according to safety engineers, is about half safety devices and half personal caution. It is now twenty-two years since Dr. William H. Tolman returned from Germany, where he had been studying accident prevention and started the Safety First movement in our country. That movement has worked wonders. For one thing, it has reduced railroad deaths to a third of what they were in 1907. The trouble with the Safety First movement always has been that it is spasmodic. Between celebrations, the public gets lulled into carelessness, then accidents burst forth again on a big scale and another Safety First movement is started. To keep the Safety First fires burning constantly, several hundred prominent citizens have just formed a national Society for Prevention of Accidents. To help in this movement and protect your own life and body, you merely have to observe two simple rules: First, keep your eyes open. Second, be cautious, take no chances.

CHURCH NEWS

Furnished by the Church News Association

The action of Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee, regarding the wearing by Catholic young women of young men's clothes for alleged hiking trips, is meeting approval from other archbishops and bishops of the Catholic church. Word reaches Milwaukee that similar action is to be taken in at least four dioceses. Archbishop Messmer instructed his clergy not only to refuse absolution and the Communion to young women in knickerbockers and trousers, but to forbid them entrance into any church, to service or when no services were in progress. The order has been out a fortnight in the Milwaukee archdiocese. Archbishop Messmer is known to have replied to inquiries from other Catholic dioceses that he finds parents at fault for permitting daughters to appear in such suits, and that he has had good results by his appeals to these parents. "Let pastors publish as a rule for their parishes that no woman or girl with a dress cut below the collar bone or with naked arms will be allowed to receive Communion. Let priests refuse absolution to all Catholic girls going out in so-called hiking suits, a most outrageous, down right immodest and sinful fashion that threatens to become general. No decent Catholic girl with any sense of Christian modesty," observes Archbishop Messmer, "will go on the street in such an abominable attire. There is no reason for such fashion. The modern girl's dress is short enough for any hike or other need."

The changes made in Presbyterian church management, consolidation of more than a dozen boards into four, is regarded as one of the most radical ever made in any religious body, and made with equal unanimity. Besides the chairman of the committee, the Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone, ministers who are said to have done the steering work, to allay friction and secure the changes, were the Rev. Dr. Alexander McGill of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. William H. Stewart of Rochester, and the laymen John H. DeWitt, a lawyer of Nashville, and Nelson H. Loomis, another lawyer of Omaha. The New Era movement, which has represented all of the boards in publicity work and the raising of money, is continued for two years at least, and all of the boards are to function in their old ways during the current year. It is stated that no legal obstacles will prevent full consolidations, and that no special legislation will be required.

The largest gathering of Sunday school leaders ever held in the world meets in Kansas on June 21. The number of delegates is more than 8,000, and some states are asking for accommodations beyond their quotas. It is the sixteenth international Sunday School Convention, and those attending it will lead the largest body of children engaged in Bible study that the world affords. Marion Lawrence, the veteran Sunday school worker of Chicago, and successor to the famous B. F. Jacobs of the same city, is at the head of the program committee.

Reports from sixty-five percent of all theological seminaries, save only the Jewish, indicate that the graduation season now well over, is showing very small increase in number of Christian ministers in the United States. Since 1914 ministers have increased in number at a very low rate. Some years have shown fewer than 2,000, out of a total ministerial force approaching 260,000. The increase this year will not go above ten percent over last year, if it goes so much. Roman Catholics, Methodists, Disciples and a few of the smaller bodies show less acute conditions than formerly, and almost alone account for the small increase shown. Bodies at a standstill, or nearly so, include the Congregational, Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopal and some of the smaller bodies, like Unitarian, Universalists and Methodist Protestant.

The Genoa And Washington Conferences Compared

(BY FRANK H. SIMONDS)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Since the ending of the Genoa conference there have been many comparisons made between this meeting in the Italian city and the still recent Washington conference. All the commentators, both at home and abroad, have agreed in the fact that Washington was, measurably at least, a success, while Genoa, despite all the post-mortem camouflage, was a failure. But from this point of departure endless conclusions have been reached. Arguments have been adduced to demonstrate that had the method of Washington been employed at Genoa success would have followed.

Analyzes Washington Success

Here, of course, the whole case breaks down. It is plain that not even the Washington method could have saved the Genoa conference. Indeed what is rather the case, had there been any real attempt to apply the Washington method there would have been no Genoa conference. One of the greatest failures of all the crop that appeared after our own conference was the idea that a new method had been found to deal with the oldest of international diseases.

The success at Washington so far as success was attained lay in the existence of certain facts which were recognized. At the bottom was the fact that the United States had adopted a naval program, which, if actually carried out, would give us the supremacy on the blue water. Great Britain could not afford to keep pace with us given the burdens resulting from the war. Japan had never pretended to keep pace with us, but was destined to fall further and further behind since she could not compete with us given her smaller financial resources.

We then stood in the prospective position of the first sea power in the world. Nothing could stop us unless we chose of our own volition to forego our possibility. But it was a fact that the American people saw no need for so great a navy and were increasingly hostile to the vast expenditures which were necessarily required. Thus while Great Britain and Japan had every reason to expect that there should be a limitation of armament, since without such limitation they were sure to be outclassed, American public sentiment was opposed to meeting the costs of sea supremacy.

All Wanted Navy Cut

The three great sea powers then, had a common desire to fix a limit to naval construction. There was no rivalry of a serious sort, no recent recollection of aggression. Since we could, if we chose, outstrip the other two, we sat in the driver's seat, but in advance we were prepared to resign this expensive glory. Now, when there had been a series of private exchanges between these three governments which disclosed a common agreement, nothing was more simple than to call a public conference to put it in writing.

Insofar as naval strength was concerned there was, moreover, at the conference itself only very minor differences of opinion as between the three sea powers. The Japanese held out for the Mutus and got it, but the ratios were maintained, by adding extra tonnage to Britain and America. A great deal of noise was made over the question, but it was really a minor matter. What was of more moment, was the political situation in the Pacific.

The Japanese navy was deliberately constructed to meet an American policy. More or less definitely we had taken on the role of the protector of China. We had, with one or two notable exceptions, insisted upon certain things upon the continent of Asia and our insistence meant that one day if we adhered to such principles we should have to fight Japan. For that day, Japan was preparing.

Would Limit Fleet Area

What Great Britain desired was to put a limit upon sea strength which would leave her equal in strength, rather than be outdistanced as would be the case had we completed our program. What Japan desired was to abolish the menace to her own increasing naval strength and our Pacific policy carried. To do this she had to work for a condition in which our fleet would be eliminated as an offensive force in those waters where she was vitally interested, namely in the China seas.

What Japan sought in reality was not a limitation in the tonnage of capital ships, but a limitation in the area within which our fleet could operate. She achieved this end by means of the four power Pacific treaty, under the terms of which we agreed not to add to the fortifications of the Philippines or erect forts on Guam. In other words we agreed to such conditions as make it impossible for us to send our fleet beyond the Hawaiian Islands.

But the United States as a people were unwilling either to pay the costs of wrestling sea supremacy from the British or of supporting a policy in the far east which envisaged an inevitable war with Japan. So agreement was easily had upon the question of the Pacific. These two sacrifices, the one to the British, the other to Japan, insured the success of the Washington conference. But one must note that it was a case of bargain pure and simple.

Harmonize Differences

So far Washington was a success, because all three sea powers had purposes and desires which were easily harmonized and tended toward a common end. That this was the case was carefully ascertained in advance and prepared for. Great Britain which had already prospectively dropped to the rank of a second power, by virtue of the Washington agreement, retained paper equality, actual only in the case of capital ships because otherwise she far surpassed us. Japan, menaced in the far east, obtained a guarantee against American interference, through the pledge we made not to fortify those bases without which we could not operate in Chinese or Japanese waters. We got what we wanted, an escape from huge expenditures for which there was neither public support nor any pressing political reason.

Sub Not Limited

When one turns to another phase of Washington, however, one encounters not success but failure. No limitation was placed upon the submarine, which naval experts generally believe is the weapon of the future for the simple reason that France refused to accept a ratio fixed by the United States and Great Britain and regarded by her own experts as far too small. In other words, and the Genoa parallel will be clear presently, there was a situation as between France and Great Britain in Europe, which did not, at the moment, permit the representatives of the two nations to see eye to eye. Such being the case the Washington conference completely failed to fix our compromise and the submarine ratio was scrapped.

One might add, parenthetically, that while the capital ship ratio was accepted by the French representatives in Washington, it has not been accepted by the French parliament and when I was in Paris there was every indication that the French parliament would add a reservation of its own to the five power treaty materially increasing the French percentage.

France and Britain at Odds

In a word, Great Britain, Japan and the United States could reach an agreement because they all wanted approximately the same thing, although for quite different reasons. France and Great Britain could not reach an agreement, because they had totally opposing views. For this divergence there was no remedy in a conference where any remedy in public opinion, for French public opinion went one way, and British the other. That American opinion coincided with British actually had not the smallest effect upon the French, who saw their own interests and stood by them.

Consider now, if you please the Genoa situation. There was no understanding arrived at in advance between Russia on the one side and the western powers on the other. There was and remains a fundamental difference in principle between the communistic idea of property and the capitalistic to which latter we hold in common with all the other great powers. Unless it were possible to find a compromise Genoa was bound to fail in advance but no attempt was made to find out in advance whether there could be any common ground.

You had, then, Russia and the rest of the world at the opposite poles on the question which underlay all else. If commercial and financial relations were to be restored to a normal basis and the Russian soviet government recognized, but you had something more, you had almost as profound a difference between the western nations as to the extent to which they should go in making compromises to meet the Russian situation. Great Britain and Italy, for domestic political and economic reasons were ready to go almost the whole distance, France and Belgium were not prepared to go a foot. The rest of Europe, the neutral states included divided in the matter, while the United States, sitting on the sidelines, through the secretary of state, endorsed the Franco-Belgian view.

No Chance at Genoa

What chance was there, then, of success at Genoa? What comparison can actually be made between Genoa and Washington? Washington was a market place where three people, having something to trade and desiring to trade, met and completed their bargain. In advance all three had been formed of the state of mind of those they were to meet, having once the price, but each of the three came to do business on the best terms obtainable. The fourth, France, having a different state of mind, declined to buy or sell on available terms and was thus in a Genoa state of mind.

A great effort and perhaps a natural effort has been made to dramatize the Washington conference as something unique and epoch-making with a peculiar moral tinge. Of course, it was nothing of the sort. It did not promote reconciliation, as the Anglo-French dispute clearly showed, what it did do was to demonstrate that when nations are united by common self interest, not even an international conference can prevent them from striking a bargain, but when self interests run counter, then an international conference only helps to accentuate these differences.

That, after all, was the history of the Hague. It has been the history of all international conferences and must remain so. Genoa is only a faint evidence of the folly of holding a conference when there is no solid basis for agreement or for bargaining. At Genoa, Russia found the western nations not united upon terms which they would offer, but divided upon those terms. Accordingly Russia undertook, just as Talleyrand did at the congress of Vienna, to place one group against the other.

No Possibility of Agreement

In the end Genoa broke down when it had been clearly shown what might have been ascertained in advance, that there was no present possibility of bringing Russia and the rest of Europe into one agreement which would be acceptable to all concerned. An adjournment to The Hague leaves the way open for a new trial, but—as Lloyd George himself has said—all possible chance of success is conditioned upon a radical change of position on the part of either of Russia or of the nations which stood with France in maintaining the view which has been officially announced again and again as the American view.

The difficulty at Genoa, the trouble in Europe today is not a trouble merable by the application of a new method, or of the Washington method, which is one of the oldest, it lies in the fact that the nations of Europe are divided utterly on every important question. There is a French view, a British view, a German view, a Russian view. Therefore to bring representatives of these nations together is only to insure a public revelation of the extent to which they are separated by clashing and conflicting interests and conceptions of interest.

Today the Englishman says: "I must have a navy which ranks with respect of any other European navy as 5 to 1.75, that is that the other two naval powers of Europe, France and Italy shall not have a combined strength of more than 3.50 as against my 5." The Frenchman says: "I must have an army which will have an effective European strength of at least 5 to the German 2.5." But when these two statements have been made, then, quite naturally, the Frenchman demands a larger navy while the Englishman insists that the French shall reduce their army. At bottom, of course, each sees his danger in a different form, one at sea, the other on land.

But the Englishman argues that France will be safe if she reduces her army, provides all Europe agrees to sign a non-aggressive pact. To which the Frenchman replies that Belgium was not safe in 1914, although she was neutralized and her neutrality guaranteed by the nation which attacked her. Then the Englishman replies that it is a new world and a new Germany and clutches the argument by declaring that if France does not let Germany up, Germany will in due course seek revenge. The Frenchman replies that he cannot see any sign of a new world and believes that the German will attack him, even if he does let him up.

Can't Discuss Agreement

You see, then, quite plainly, that there is no use in a conference on the subject of disarmament, as the league of nations commission has just reported. In the first place because France will not attend such a conference, because she made this clear at Boulogne and Briand fell after Cannes because he had not made it clear, secondly because if France did attend such a conference her course is marked out in advance, as was disclosed during the Washington conference by Briand's memorable speech.

But if the French do what they said they would, what will be left of the Washington achievement? Will the British and perhaps the Japanese insist upon larger capital tonnage compelling us to do the same? Even if the French accept the capital ship ratio, then submarine refusal stands and will stand demonstrating the fallacy of the assumption that Washington provided a new method of conciliation instead of an old method of expressing a conciliation already frankly desired by three nations. The really great achievement in the case of the Washington conference was the ascertainment of the fact that the moment had arrived when because of the state of mind in the three great sea powers it was now possible to bring about an agreement, ordinarily impossible as between nations. The underlying cause of the failure at Genoa was the utterly mistaken assumption that such a state of mind existed as between 14 nations invited to share in its deliberations. Mr. Hughes made a similar mistake as to France and was duly punished, but he made no such mistake as to Japan and Great Britain and so far as these nations were concerned had a successful conference in Washington.

ment between Russian and the western nations and the situation was further complicated by the profound divergencies between the western nations themselves. And, in the present situation in Europe any new conference must fail for similar reasons. Conferences do not settle things, they simply record one's desire for settlement, when that has arrived.

Why, after all has the league of nations ceased to figure in all important questions? Simply because to refer any question of major importance to the league is merely to transfer to that field all the battle now fought out in conferences, or in the supreme council. The league of nations could have accomplished exactly as much as the Washington conference had taken place at Geneva nothing would have been changed but the battlefield and the same is true so far as Washington is concerned.

Nothing was more interesting to me on my recent trip to Europe than foreign comment upon the Washington conference. In the first place it was little discussed anyway, because Europe regarded it as a side issue. In Great Britain it was mainly viewed as perhaps bringing the United States and Great Britain a step nearer to each other and in any event abolishing a cause of future friction. There was, too, a sigh of relief that Britain had avoided a competition which was ruinous and in the end could have but one end. America talked of British resignation of sea supremacy, the British of having maintained equality in theory and in practice something more.

France Plans Reservation

In France and on the continent generally Washington was regarded as a tremendous British triumph and a Japanese victory, as well. It was also identified as a French defeat. But no Frenchman believed that, had the French case been better presented, it would have failed to enlist American support. Therefore the French said, "we shall follow the American example and append a reservation, allowing us larger capital ship tonnage, but we shall take pains to make our explanation so clear that it will not be misunderstood as were the remarks of Briand, Viviani and Sarraute." This I submit is about as complete a misreading of American opinion as is conceivable.

But if the French do what they said they would, what will be left of the Washington achievement? Will the British and perhaps the Japanese insist upon larger capital tonnage compelling us to do the same? Even if the French accept the capital ship ratio, then submarine refusal stands and will stand demonstrating the fallacy of the assumption that Washington provided a new method of conciliation instead of an old method of expressing a conciliation already frankly desired by three nations.

The really great achievement in the case of the Washington conference was the ascertainment of the fact that the moment had arrived when because of the state of mind in the three great sea powers it was now possible to bring about an agreement, ordinarily impossible as between nations. The underlying cause of the failure at Genoa was the utterly mistaken assumption that such a state of mind existed as between 14 nations invited to share in its deliberations. Mr. Hughes made a similar mistake as to France and was duly punished, but he made no such mistake as to Japan and Great Britain and so far as these nations were concerned had a successful conference in Washington.

LA CROSSE SOLDIER WHO SAW LINCOLN SHOT RECALLS NIGHT

E. J. Porter, Sexton of First Methodist Church, Tells of Incident in Ford's Theater

SAW ASSASSIN LEAP ONTO STAGE AFTER FIRING SHOT

Also Tells of Halting Lincoln at White House Gate

It was with considerable interest that E. A. Porter, 405 South Tenth street, sexton of the First Methodist church, read the stories last week of the dedication of the great Lincoln memorial in Washington on Memorial day. For Mr. Porter, then a young man and a soldier in the Union army, was in Ford's theater, Washington, D. C., on the night Abraham Lincoln was shot, April 14, 1865.

Small of stature, but keen-eyed, alert and very active mentally, Mr. Porter recalled that fateful night many years ago when Lincoln fell victim of an assassin's bullet. And now with the dedication of one of the greatest memorials ever built to honor the memory of a human being in the history of the world the full import of the tragedy is impressed on the mind of a man who all his life regarded Abraham Lincoln as the model for all that is good and true in an American citizen.

Recalls Fateful Scenes
Mr. Porter passed in his work at the church one day last week long enough to again recount the scenes and impressions of the night of April 14, 1865. The outstanding details are still as vivid and finely delineated as the night they were burned and impressed into his memory.

"I was sitting in the 'lobby' or 'big room' as some folks call it—really is the gallery—of Ford's theater with my comrade, George Hanson. We were close to the front row but to one side, the same side as the box occupied by Mr. Lincoln and his party. Suddenly we heard a shot. It wasn't very loud, at least we didn't. George and I think so. We were used to hearing shots fired around Washington at that time and thought it was a cannon shot somewhere off in the hills. It took a minute or two for the people in the theater to realize what had happened.

Saw Assassin Leap to Stage
"A few seconds after the shot was fired we saw a man—we afterwards learned it was John Wilkes Booth, the actor—leap out of the president's box to the stage, a distance of about 15 feet. As he struck the stage his knees seemed to give under him and he fell. He limped when he arose and hobbled off the stage. They say he yelled at the audience something about 'Sic Semper Tyrannis,' but I didn't hear him; there was too much commotion. It took us about ten minutes to reach the street. Just as we got outside we saw them carrying Lincoln into the house across from the theater where he died.

"The way in which we happened to be in Washington and go to the theater that night was this: I was in Company C, Fourth United States infantry, and had been doing guard duty for some time in the capital. George Hanson and myself had been detailed to do guard duty at a beer garden back of the capital. We weren't guarding the beer garden particularly, we were there to keep the soldiers out of the place. Well, we were put on that beer garden detail on the morning of April 14, 1865. We were there all morning and most of the afternoon.

"We had nothing to eat in the afternoon and we were getting tired. We had heard nothing from our commanding officers so the officer of the day was summoned. We told him who we were and he told us that our regiment had left that morning for Richmond. Well, that meant only one thing, they had forgotten us.

"This officer of the day saw that we obtained passes so we could leave the capital and join our regiment. But before we left we decided to stay in town that night and see a show. We went to see 'Our American Cousin' and also saw some of the assassination of the president.

"I was 16 years old when I enlisted in Montpelier, Vermont," continued Mr. Porter. "I was mustered in in January, 1862, but my enlistment dated from June, 1861, when the call was issued. I enlisted in the First Vermont battery and served three years with the organization, seeing active service, and when my enlistment expired I re-enlisted in the Fourth United States infantry, Hancock's corps. It was then I was detailed to guard duty in Washington.

Halts Mr. Lincoln
"I well remember one day, it was some time before Mr. Lincoln was shot, that I was doing guard duty at the entrance to the White House grounds. Mr. Lincoln came down the walk and started through the gate. 'Halt,' I cried, bringing my musket up with the point of the bayonet directed toward Mr. Lincoln's breast. 'Why, don't you know who I am?' asked Mr. Lincoln. 'I don't know anybody who can't give the countersign,' I replied. 'All right, please call the officer of the guard,' answered Mr. Lincoln. I called the officer of the guard. When he arrived and saw who it was I was holding up at the point of a bayonet, he exclaimed: 'Why, don't you know who this is?'

He Knew Nobody
"I was determined to stick by my post and the rules of conduct on my post, and I said I didn't know anybody who couldn't give the countersign. Of course, the officer passed Mr. Lincoln and he and the officer walked away. Mr. Lincoln had gone about 15 or 20 feet, when he returned and held out his hand to me, giving me a hearty handshake. 'You are a good soldier,' the president said to me. 'If you had passed me without a challenge I wouldn't have thought you were a very good soldier.'

"Mr. Lincoln and I became very friendly after that as I remained on guard at the White House for some time. He always remembered my stopping him and demanding the countersign; he never seemed to forget it. We would always pass the time of day and speak of the weather.

Needless to say, I didn't halt Mr. President again. He could pass me any time of the day after that and I never demanded any identification.

Lincoln Saved Condemned
"It was about the same time that a number of soldiers were being court-martialed for falling asleep at their posts or else deserting their posts. They were condemned to be shot but were pardoned by Mr. Lincoln and told to return to their regiments. Mr. Lincoln always said they would make better soldiers for their experience."

Mr. Porter first came to La Crosse about eighteen years ago. He had a daughter married and living here, Mrs. Claude Thompson. Then he returned to Montpelier, remaining there about four years. He came back to La Crosse and has lived here ever since. He has another married daughter, Mrs. W. P. Colby, living in Wadsworth, N. D. Mrs. Thompson is dead but each year Mr. Porter and his wife go to Oak Grove cemetery and decorate their daughter's grave with flowers. This year Mrs. Porter was compelled to remain at home because of the inclement weather, but Mr. Porter was undaunted by rain and kept his record intact, that of never missing in the active participation of Memorial day.

NEW SMOKE SCREEN BEING DEVELOPED BY THE U. S. NAVY

New Plan of Creating Fog Big Saving Over Old Scheme of Black Smoke

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Having originated the first smoke screen ever used by any navy, the American navy is now developing a new smoke screen. Instead of the dense black smoke, used by the German navy in escaping the British fleet in the battle of Jutland, the new-fangled American screen for ship operation is to be a dense fog and made at a considerable saving of money.

In disclosing the navy department's experiments with the new fog screen, Rear Admiral Robinson, chief of the bureau of engineering, told a senate committee that it was believed the fog screen would be even more impenetrable than the old black smoke clouds. The latter are made by feeding too much fuel in the ship boilers. This, Admiral Robinson said, was costly, wasting fuel and fouling boiler tubes. In some cases it weakened boiler walls and was dangerous, he said. The engineering bureau now is perfecting plans to make the fog screen by feeding oil above the boilers, just below the smoke outlets, and Admiral Robinson said the experiments so far justify belief that the new fog screen will be more effective and less costly.

LAST BALLOONIST LANDS IN MISSOURI SAILED 535 MILES

Lieut. Reed May Be Placed Third or Fourth in Great Air Race;
Only Entrant for Navy

LANDED IN CORN FIELD IN
OZARK MOUNTAINS; UNHARMED

Balloon Filled With Helium Declared to Have no Advantage

MILWAUKEE. — Lieut. W. F. Reed, navy pilot, and the last of the thirteen entrants to leave Milwaukee in the national air race last Wednesday, was reported here in dispatches to the Wisconsin Aero club to have landed Friday in the Ozark mountains, in southern Missouri.

The United States coast guard service announced Saturday night that Lieut. Reed had covered 535 miles in his flight, making him third in the race and one of the American contenders in the international event to be held at Geneva.

The text of the telegram received from Lieut. Reed by the Wisconsin Aero club follows:

Messages From Reed
"Salem, Mo.—Navy balloon landed very gently in valley corn field in Ozark mountains at 10:35 a. m. June 2. 535 miles north of Eureka, Mo. Without ballast and wind from West. Balloon equipment by wagon to Salem. We came by horseback over mountain and valley trails to Reeder; auto, Reeder to Salem. Landing distance 535 miles from Milwaukee. (Signed) 'CYCLOPE REED'."

In a second telegram to the Wisconsin Aero club Saturday night Lieut. Reed placed his distance from Milwaukee at only 445 miles. Officials of the coast guard, weather bureau and Aero Club estimated the distance variously at from 475 to 550 miles tonight.

Officials of the coast guard, weather bureau and Aero Club estimated the distance variously at from 475 to 550 miles tonight.

Lieut. Reed's own estimate of his distance is correct, it was pointed out, he will be placed fourth instead of third, dropping behind Van Orman.

Reed Only Naval Entrant
CHICAGO. — Lieut. W. F. Reed was the only naval contestant in the balloon race, the other navy bag, piloted by Lieut. Commander Norfleet, being filled with helium and consequently ineligible for prizes.

Lieut. Reed took off from the Milwaukee starting field at 2:54 p. m. central time, Wednesday May 31. He had with him as aide, Chief Riggs, Kit Mullenax. Both are from Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON. — The bureau of aeronautics of the navy department received a dispatch Saturday night from Lieut. Reed, the naval balloonist, announcing his landing in the Ozark mountains. The text was identical with that given in the dispatch to Milwaukee club officials.

Helium Gives No Advantage
ST. LOUIS. — Lieut. Commander Joseph P. Norfleet, the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., who piloted the navy's balloon, the thirtieth to take off, but not as a contestant Saturday said that the use of helium gas for balloons, such as tested by him gave no great advantage over the coal gas balloon. Commander Norfleet landed at Hancock, about 150 miles southwest of St. Louis. He arrived here Saturday from that place.

The use of helium in the bag piloted by Commander Norfleet was a navy experiment. The rules regarding coal gas for balloons participating in the race barred him as a contestant.

Describing the peace time advantage, he said the pilot could smoke, helium being nonflammable. The wartime advantage, he said, would result in the reduction of danger from enemy shells.

He covered about 500 miles, he said, passing over Chicago, crossing the Mississippi above the mouth of the Illinois river and the Missouri above St. Charles, Mo. His landing was about 425 miles from Milwaukee.

The bag for helium has been rushed to completion, he said, and looked as a result, making it necessary to throw over 1,500 pounds of sand ballast last Wednesday night.

INCOMPATIBILITY

"How many wives have you had?" demanded the examining judge.
"Six, yo' Honah," was the reply.
"Why couldn't you get on with them?"

"Well, sah, de first two spilled de white folks' ches when dey washed 'em; de third 'worn't no cook; de fourth was just pacherally lazy; an' de fifth—I'll tell you, judge, de fifth she—"

"Incompatibility?"
"No, yo' Honah," said the negro, "em; de fifth 'worn't no cook; de yo' first couldn't get on with her unless yo' was somewhars else." —Harper's Magazine.

CONVICT WIFE OF MURDER
SHELBYVILLE, Ind. — Mrs. Clara Carl, charged with the murder of her husband, Frank Carl, was found guilty of murder in the second degree Saturday by a jury which recommended that she be sentenced for life. She was not sentenced pending motion for a new trial. Mrs. Carl was charged with the murder of her father-in-law, A. B. Carl, and her first husband, Robert Gibson, but was only tried for the murder of her husband.

Labor Disputes Holding Business Back-Babson

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Roger W. Babson, the statistician, today indicated several of the factors which are responsible for the slowness of business recovery.

"The floods still continue to trouble the south-west," said Mr. Babson. "Nearly four million acres of land are said to be submerged. This tends to delay planting as well as to interfere with transportation and general buying. With the exception of this flood situation and the lateness of spring, the crops are coming along very well. A little scare in the case of cotton will do no harm. Scars do not affect crops but only straighten prices and make for business activity."

"The four industries which are the most active at the present time are the building industries, railroad equipment, public works, and automobile manufacturing. They are all industries of a fundamental nature. Not only is development of these industries giving temporary employment, but they provide permanent and productive capital for the country. This is especially true in the first three instances; building, railroad equipment, and public works."

"Very hopeful reports come from the Michigan district. Mines which have not been opened for a year or two are now running on full time. Thousands of men in the mining sections are now going back to work, and the whole Michigan district, looks more prosperous. Although the copper situation is still very flat, it is like a man flat on his back. There is only one way he can look and that is upward. Michigan during the next two years is apt to be a very busy state."

"The mill situation in New England is upset. Thousands of people are still out on strikes. Although both sides claim decided advantages, statistics are rather in favor of the employers. It is believed that a cur is inevitable, and it is only a question of what the cut will be. When the mills are opened, wage reductions will run from ten to twenty percent; although these reductions will do little good unless the workers feel right and are happy. As some mills reopen, they will reopen on an open shop plan, although I believe that in many instances these manufacturers will go back again and deal with the union as soon as business becomes good and help scarce."

"Wage reductions apply not only to the textile industries but to the shoe industries and in some cases to the building industries. The Structural Iron and Steel Workers' union in Syracuse, N. Y., have recently accepted a wage scale of a dollar an hour for all work. I emphasize that these labor conflicts—whatever side may be to blame—are the one important factor preventing business from coming back to normal. Both profits and wages must be cut and all connected with industry from the president of the concern to the office boy must give more service per dollar received."

"The Babsonchart index now stands at sixteen percent below normal as against minus twenty-two percent as it was at this time in 1921. This chart is really a chart of production and values. To have prosperity people must be at work; to have people at work there must be a demand for goods; and to have a demand for goods, people must be prosperous! Hence, the soundness of the Golden Rule and why we all—whether employers or wage workers—should be interested in having the other fellow prosperous. Yes," concluded the statistician, "there is a real connection between religion and business. The sooner we realize it the sooner we'll be back to normal."

KENTUCKY DEMOCRAT ASSAILS DAUGHERTY AND PRES. HARDING

Senator Stanley Criticizes Executive and Attorney General for their Stand

WASHINGTON. — President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty were assailed Saturday in the senate by Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, in connection with statements credited Friday to President Harding with respect to a senate attack on Secretary Hoover and to assertions made by Mr. Daugherty in his Chicago address Friday to the policy to be followed in filling the 24 judgeships created under a bill recently passed by the senate and house.

Senator Stanley said Mr. Harding was attempting "to strangle if not to kill Muscle Shoals" and accused the attorney general of having, by his Chicago speech "served public notice on applicants for the judgeships they must not say anything in criticism of Mr. Daugherty if they expected appointment to the bench."

Reading from a dispatch in the Philadelphia Press in which it was stated that the president had taken a "two-fisted fling at the political blackguards" who attacked executive officers, Senator Stanley wanted to know who were those "political blackguards" who are assailing the attorney general.

"They are two members of congress," he said, "who on Friday wore the colors and the uniforms of a soldier; eminent senators representing sovereign states, ambassadors from two proud commonwealths. It is possible that a genial, self-poised, courteous gentleman occupying this high place could so far forget himself to speak for a man who dares not speak for himself?"

"Will the president in his desperation, finding no other who dare to say a word for this discredited official, denounce senators as blackguards who criticize the nefarious and crooked operations of a political broker who makes it a business, it is charged, at least to deceive the chief magistrate of the United States in order that men may despoil women in time of peace and plunder the treasury in time of war?"

"WHITE STREAK" IS HERE; F-50 MITCHELL TO PERFORM SUNDAY

Latest Mitchell Car Parades La Crosse Saturday; to Do Stunt in Riverside Sunday Night

The new F-50 Mitchell—the Mitchell "White Streak"—is in town. It was marched up and down Main street and all around the town Saturday by F. X. Dietz and all of the "Streak's" fine points were shown to the town.

Heading a parade of new F-50 Mitchells, driven by their owners, the "White Streak" made a brave and imposing showing. At its wheel sat Pat Heffner, trick driver and right bower from the Mitchell factory when it comes to making a "White Streak" perform on a hill, in a tight place in a traffic jam, or on a parade with Main street lined with an admiring populace, saying "Ah" and "Oh" as they watched the "Streak" and Pat amble by.

But the prize performance in Pat's bag of tricks will be performed Sunday evening, about dusk, in Riverside park, right where State street divides itself around the pretty circular flower bed. Pat is going to start the "White Streak" going with the engine trotted down to one and a half miles an hour, get out and let the "Streak" go around the circular flower bed without anybody within 100 feet of the steering wheel or any of the controls. It's Pat's best trick with the "Streak."

The sister car of the "White Streak" that is now in town left Chicago last Thursday on a 10,000-day transcontinental tour. K. M. Landis, recent terror of rum runners and moonshiners and now chief baseball arbiter—the man who made Babe Ruth take a back seat for a few days—sealed the bonnet of the car. The seal will not be broken until the end of the trip.

Although my intentions were right; I'll be S. O. L. with the girls for a spell.
For I'm going to the Legion tonight.

I'm due for some bowling at Casey's. There's a phoche game on at Fred's. I'll take a fool for a game of straight pool.
And I've got some good tables at Ed's.
If they phone me I'll say I'm not coming.
Though I know they'll be ready to fight.
They can threaten or swear, or go up in the air.
But I'm going to the Legion tonight.

I've answered roll call every meeting. And nothing can keep me away. For I've got a hunch that I'll meet the old bunch.
That I'll chummed with for many a day.
So it's me for the live-wire outfit. Where I'll talk and harangue and swap jokes with the gang.
For I'm going to the Legion tonight!

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

and if it is important, he says it. To him God is a truth. We in Wisconsin are not used to having politicians appeal to God on the stump. The average politician wants to keep his God and his politics separate. Thus far young Mr. Morgan's politics have been clean enough to associate with his religion.

THE CONFERENCE, on the senatorship, built "on the altar to the unknown God." A majority of the convention did not know much about Arthur Ganfield. It is said he has an interesting and an important record. What it is, the people will be told in time. But just as it was said that La Follette had gone to Chicago and made his candidate for attorney general an Illinois lawyer, so it is apt to be said that the 44 conference imported its senatorial candidate from Kentucky.

The fact was that until about a year ago and for some years thereafter, Dr. Ganfield had been absent from Wisconsin. The circumstances should be fully known before one attempts to discuss them. The chances are that Senator La Follette's speakers will call it fifty-fifty on the "carpetbagger" issue. No doubt the state will wait with profound interest Dr. Ganfield's first disclosure of himself upon the stump.

THE IRISH situation continues bad. Sectarian war in Belfast makes night hideous. British troops and local police authorities combined have been unable fully to cope with the situation.

In south Ireland difficulties have piled up. In hope of preventing civil war De Valera joined with the Griffith government. As a republican, De Valera refused to take the oath of allegiance made by free states. The resulting controversy arising upon England's objection, threatens to destroy the free state and restore Ireland to its original relations with the crown. The week closed with tension somewhat reduced. An ultimatum presented to Collins by the British government elicited a reply which England accepts as a suitable basis

The HOME GARDEN

A NEW TYPE OF GLADIOLI

The new primivus hybrid gladioli are the hardest of the entire gladioli family and should be used for the earliest planting. The bulbets often survive the winter and come up in the spring, especially if the soil is light and well drained. The mature bulbs are not so hardy, but will brave more unfavorable weather than the other varieties which are farther from their type through frequent hybridization.

The primivus gladioli have loose spikes and are more graceful than the older classes and the prevalent is yellow with many exquisite shades in pink, salmon, orange, buff and ranging into scarlets.

The colors are all soft, reminding one of the soft shades in some of the late tulips.

For the earliest gladioli planting use the primivus type. Planted in mid-April they will give bloom by July and can then be followed by the more robust types.

for a conference to adjust the differences of opinion. What was contained in the British note and the answer is not known.

THEY DON'T NEED TO

In reference to the evolutionists, Mr. Brynn says, "They can't make a monkey out of me!"

Who wants to make a monkey out of William? Are the rascally evolutionists trying to repeat what the republican party did in 1896, in 1900 and in 1908; what Tammany Hall did in 1904; what Woodrow Wilson did in 1912; what Woodrow Wilson again did a few years later, when he God-blessed William from the state department into the outer darkness; what Hitchcock did a half dozen times in Nebraska; what the sepulchral Mr. Trammell is reported to be about to do in Florida, if William will but give him the chance?

If the evolutionists are wasting their time trying to make a monkey out of William, they must be truly as silly as William says they are. Carrying coals to Newcastle is an essential industry as compared with the job of simianizing W. J. B.—Baltimore American.

DOUBLE HAIR NETS
THREATEN CHINA'S
PIGTAIL INDUSTRY

Importers Plan Drive Against Manufacture of Net Which Outwears Single Net

WASHINGTON, D. C.—China's export pigtail industry is threatened by the preference of American women for double hair nets, according to a report to the commerce department from Consul Gauss at Ssinan.

Manufacture of double hair nets, the report said, threatens to reduce the human hair net business very much as the double net long outwears the single net and advises in China indicate that an association of hair net importers has been formed in the United States, one of its objects being to discourage the making of double nets. It is estimated, the report added, that unless the double net is driven off the market the hair net business in China will decline by 75 or 80 per cent.

"It is understood," the report said, "that no definite agreement has been reached to give up the importation of double nets, but, after consultation with the Chinese legation at Washington, the proposal was made to establish a hair net guild in China, which, realizing the effect of the double net manufacture on the industry, would undertake to discourage the manufacture of double nets."

WM. EULER'S SUIT AGAINST HIS SISTER OVER NOTES SETTLED

Sought to Collect $2,200 on Notes; Defense Claimed Mrs.
Bean Never Executed Them

The suit of William Euler against his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bean, for the payment of notes, totaling $2,200, was settled by the attorneys in the case, George Bunge and Otto Schlabach, shortly after the hearing opened in circuit court Saturday afternoon. The case was first heard Thursday afternoon, was adjourned until Saturday in order that handwriting experts might have time to scrutinize the signatures on the notes in question and also testify.

Euler sued his sister to recover on three notes alleged to have been signed by her, one for $400, another for $800 and another for $800. The $400 and the $800 notes were signed with the name "Lizzie Bean." The $800 note had been secured by a mortgage. It originally was for $1,600 and made out to John Weimar. The mortgage, as far as Weimar is concerned, had been satisfied. Later, it is said to have been presented for payment. The figures, $1,600 had been crossed out and $800 substituted and the name "John Weimar" crossed out and the name "William Euler" substituted.

Euler contended Lizzie Bean gave him the note. Lizzie Bean declared she did not, that Euler took the note from the center table in the parlor in the Bean home.

Jess Bremer, N. M. Elstad and Prof. Lau were called as experts in handwriting to testify as to the signatures on the notes. Bremer, however, was the only witness called to the stand. Euler testified that Lizzie Bean signed the notes in his presence. Comparisons of the handwriting of Mrs. Bean and the signatures on the notes, in the opinion of the experts, showed that none of the notes were signed by Mrs. Bean.

It also was brought out that on January 3 Mrs. Bean wrote a letter in which it was shown that she had knowledge of the notes and their provisions though she said she had never seen the notes. The contention of the defense was that none of the notes were executed by Mrs. Bean.

In the stipulation entered into the record Saturday afternoon by Mr. Bunge and Mr. Schlabach, a settlement was agreed to and also that each party would pay their own costs of the action.

WOMAN CONFESSES TO BIGAMY AND IS SENT TO JAIL

FLINT, Mich.—Mrs. Lola Rehuck-Spicer, who confessed to bigamy charges, was sentenced in circuit court here Saturday to from eighteen months to five years in the Michigan House of Correction. She pleaded guilty to the bigamy charge but was sentenced for violation of her two years probation on a larceny charge. The court recommended she serve the minimum term.

Mrs. Spicer admitted having been married to both "Anthony" Spicer, high police patrolman and Henry Rehuck, a daytime factory worker. She denied, however, the allegations that she spent her night in Rehuck's home and each day in the home of Spicer.

UPHOLDS RIGHT OF STATE COMMISSION TO FIX RAIL RATES

Milwaukee Judge Dismisses Suit Against Badger Board by Michigan City

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Federal Judge F. A. Geiger Saturday dismissed a suit against the Wisconsin railroad commission and thereby upheld the law authorizing the commission to fix railroad rates. The suit was brought by the chamber of commerce of Menominee, Mich., and was dismissed on a motion of the commission.

"If Judge Geiger had granted the injunction asked by the Menominee chamber of commerce, the railroad commission would have been powerless to fix rail rates," Ralph M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, said.

Recently the commission reduced by twenty per cent the intrastate rate on coal. The chamber of commerce brought an action against the commission to enjoin it from enforcing the new rate, contending that it was discriminatory against Menominee coal shippers. These shippers, the chamber contended, could not compete against Wisconsin shippers if the rate was maintained.

Mr. Hoyt, who argued the case before Judge Geiger Saturday, contended that the court had no jurisdiction.

WINONA CHILD TO HAVE A STAR ROLE IN NORMAL PLAY

Little Geraldine Leveille to Portray Part of "Comfort", Orphan Child in the Play

In presenting "A Prince There Was" at the Normal auditorium next Monday evening, the senior class of the La Crosse Normal school will offer local theatergoers the opportunity of seeing one of the most exquisite bits of juvenile characterizations observed on the local stage for some time.

Those who had the privilege of seeing this play when it was presented by a road company will remember vividly the little girl "Comfort." This child of the mimic world is one of the most beautiful character drawings to be found on the stage today.

Reared an orphan amid the squalor of a cheap New York boarding house she finds her greatest joy when she is alone with her story books and through them is transported to the fairland of her childish dreams. Her big moment of happiness in the play comes when she finds a real fairy prince and persuades him to come to the rescue of her princess.

Little Geraldine Leveille, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Leveille of Winona, will have the part of "Comfort" in the forthcoming production. The portrayal of this character will be one of the highlights of the season.

This is the second time little Miss Leveille has played this part, the first time being when she was only six years of age. Her performance at that time was considered nothing short of remarkable.

JACK BRINDLEY IS MARRIED SATURDAY TO MILWAUKEE GIRL

They will arrive in La Crosse the latter part of this week and will occupy the Brindley home in Orchard Place for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Judge Brindley will spend the summer at "The Cabin" at Eagle Bluff. Jack Brindley is connected with the radio department of the W. A. Roosevelt company.

Included in their honor list is William Nicholas of Trempealeu, Wisconsin shares with Pennsylvania the honor of having surpassed all other states in the production of guernsey cows, with records of 700 or more pounds of butter fat in a year.

POPPY DAY BIG SUCCESS REPORTS THE COMMITTEE

American Legion Grateful to all Who Assisted in Work of the Day

It has taken several days to get in all reports so as to be able to give an exact statement of the poppy sales on Poppy Day. The Roy L. Vingers Post of the American Legion takes this opportunity to thank the general public for the very pronounced support given to the Legion in the effort to raise funds for the continuance of the work of the Legion in relief of ex-service men.

The Legion wishes to thank specially the people who gave active help in planning and carrying out the work of selling the poppies. This special assistance comes under three general types: the directing help of the general committee, the assistance of a number of people in securing chaparrons and the young women who actually sold the poppies, and the various other kinds of help in a general and incidental way.

On the North Side, Prof. Harry Spence and Mrs. C. A. McCann, president of the North Side Woman's Club, took the responsibility of the street sales in that part of the city and handled the work in a most efficient manner. Mrs. Erick Sandahl also directed a small group of special workers on the North Side, which group did unusually good work.

On the South Side Mrs. R. W. Keyes and Mrs. Edith Jost very wholeheartedly responded to the request to serve on the general committee and to the efforts of these two is due, probably more than to anyone else, the success of the work. Mrs. Keyes secured the assistance of a large number of the members of the Service Star Legion who had taken part in the poppy sales last year and Mrs. Jost, president of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, secured a large number of workers from that organization.

The following friends of the Legion secured most of the young women helpers and some of the chaperons: Miss Kate Taylor, Onalaska High school, Miss Anna Mashek and Miss Marie Esch, La Crosse High school, Miss Florence Olson, St. Louis Normal school, Mrs. Merton J. Lyon and Miss Florence Foxworth, First Methodist church, Mrs. L. W. Tidam, Congregational church, Mrs. W. H. Sanders, First Presbyterian church, and Mrs. George H. Gordon.

The following people very kindly furnished automobiles for use of the workers during the day: Messrs. John M. Holley, Henry A. Lee, T. H. Brindley, Harry Rader, Harry Leitold, and Mrs. A. J. Roberge.

The Boy Scouts gave specially valuable assistance as messengers and showed again how valuable and important to the community boy life will be when properly directed.

Special assistance of Mr. Wm. Doerflinger in temporarily financing the purchase of poppies and of the merchants, in general, for window advertising, is very gladly acknowledged. Also to Mrs. Koppelberger and Mr. Cooper is due appreciation for very valuable screen publicity given free of charge.

The Chamber of Commerce very kindly gave the use of its hall as headquarters for the workers and assisted in every possible way. The Tribune and Leader-Press was exceedingly generous in the matter of publicity and the Legion will always remember gratefully this very valuable aid.

Mrs. Keyes, Mrs. Jost, Mrs. L. K. Adkins and Mrs. M. F. Hayes had charge in the headquarters with the officers of the Legion on Poppy Day and kept the work going in smooth and efficient fashion.

The large number of people in various business and social relations who so kindly rendered assistance as indicated above is ample evidence of the good will for the ex-service man and for the work of the American Legion in this community, and this spirit is still more emphasized by the almost universal response of the people in buying a poppy or poppies.

The Legion is very appreciative of all the assistance given by any one in any way. The present executive committee of the Legion decided, upon taking office the first of this year, to maintain a close check on the financial affairs of the Legion and to take no financial risks. The Legion has for some time been lacking funds and has been operating under a deficit. Plans are under way to establish a special Relief Fund and a special Home Building Fund. It is quite likely that next year one half the net profit from the poppy sale will be set aside for the building fund so that after the period of most urgent relief for ex-service men has passed the Legion can build or purchase a home of its own as so many of the posts have already done all over the country. But for the present the chief concern of the local post is the assistance of those who are in immediate need.

The financial statement of the committee in charge of the Poppy Day sales is as follows:

Total receipts $1,844.11
Total expenses 794.62

Cash balance $1,049.49
Poppies on hand, about 30 gross.

EXAMINE TEETH TO PROVE IDENTITY OF SAILSTAD REMAINS

Compare Portions of Jaw Found in Cottage Ruins With X-Ray Photographs

MADISON, Wis.—On a few teeth and the remains of a jawbone recovered from the charred ruins of a cottage at Lake Nebagamon, now held by the pathological laboratory of the University of Wisconsin and three X-ray photographs taken by an Eau Claire dentist five years ago, will rest the hopes of the wife of E. J. Sailstad of Eau Claire, for a judgment of $60,000 against insurance companies. She claims that her husband was burned to death in the fire which destroyed his lake cottage.

Dr. C. H. Bunting, university pathologist produced a Roentgen ray photograph of the remains at a hearing before United States Court Commissioner Chauncey Blake, conducting an investigation into the case.

Comparison of the teeth and jaw found after the fire and the photographs will be the pivotal point in the case when it is called before the United States district court at Superior, attorneys said. Attempt will be made to show similarity between the teeth of Sailstad and those found in the ruins of the fire.

PUT GEARS IN LOW BEFORE YOU GO!

1,907 ARE KILLED IN YEAR WHERE ROADS CROSS RAILS

Safety Council Urges Gears be Put in Low Before Crossing

NEW YORK.—Cross crossings cautiously!

That is the slogan adopted for the Careful Crossing campaign, which began June 1 and ends September 30.

During that period the American Railway association wants to educate the public to think and act SAFELY FIRST. Backing the campaign are the United States Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the National Highway Traffic association, the National Safety Council and numerous other organizations.

Tremendous increases in the number of fatal accidents at railroad crossings, in most of which automobiles were involved, brought about the campaign of education.

Accidents Increase
Since 1900, statisticians of the American Railway association point out, the population of the country has increased 65 per cent, while crossing accidents have increased 345 per cent in fatalities and 652 per cent in injuries.

The United States bureau of standards has not yet announced the figures for 1921. But in 1920 automobiles were involved in 76 per cent of all crossing accidents. Persons killed (death resulting in 24 hours) totaled 1791, while 5677 were injured. 116 of the latter dying subsequently.

WONDERS OF THE DEEP

During the recent trans-oceanic misunderstanding a young Bostonian enlisted as a gob on one of the destroyers. It was observed that in every spare minute he was draped over the rail, anxiously studying the surface of the water. To all demands as to what he was looking for, he had but one answer: "A whale." "See here," remonstrated a comrade older in service, "you'll see a whale soon enough. A whale ain't so much. Just a big fish, that's all a whale is. Whatcher so nuts about seeing a whale for?" "It has been my lifelong ambition," replied the Bostonian, "to see a whale blubber. It must be impressive indeed to view such an enormous creature in tears."—American Legion Weekly.

A crank's theory often needs only a rivet or two more to become a valuable discovery. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

EXHIBIT NO. 1

REO SPEED WAGON

"The World's Best"

If you did not know—if from your own experience or observation you could not testify to—the truth of that statement, we would not use it.

Here is one product that is so outstandingly superior that it knows no real rival—no equal.

No other truck has done, or can do, its work.

None has shown the same stamina or efficiency.

None has proven equal to carrying its loads—and living as long.

It is literally true that this Speed Wagon will carry "a pound or a gallon or a capacity load" between any two points, quicker and cheaper.

Its range of highest efficiency—its greatest margin of economy over all others—is from 500 to 2500 pounds.

"A quarter-ton to a ton-and-a-quarter."

But—inasmuch as it will cover any route with no load, or loaded to full capacity, cheaper than either a flimsy-light, or an excessively heavy truck—it has proven to be the world's most economical carrying unit.

The majority in favor of the Speed Wagon is over-whelming—as evidenced by the fact that today there are more than 70,000 in use.

That's more than of all other makes combined—of similar type or size.

Demand is great. Only way to obtain a Speed Wagon is to order at once.

Delay means disappointment.

Re-election to the choir depends upon the individual conduct and scholarship of the resident singer. Out of eight hundred students in the college, about three hundred try out for the choir and about sixty are chosen. The singers must give up an hour of their recreation time each day to rehearsal and must sing at every Sunday service. The long tour in the middle of the winter and the short trips such as a recent one to La Crosse are added.

MILWAUKEE Wis.—Charges of unfair tactics in rebating are made against independent oil companies in a statement issued Saturday by Edward Nordman, Wisconsin state commissioner of markets. The independent companies, says the statement, have made "no semblance of an effort to remain within the law."

"The practice of rebating by gasoline wholesalers," the statement continues, "was originated by competitors of the Standard Oil company who have been engaged in an equal if not worse scheme of discrimination than that charged against the Standard."

MAY REPORT OF WASHINGTON COW TEST ASSOCIATION

Heaviest Production Noted Since the Organization Was Formed

The records for May show this month to be the heaviest in production since the association was organized. Of the 448 cows tested sixty made over 40 lbs. butterfat. The high cow owned by A. G. Midtlien making 1410 lbs. 6 percent milk or 84.6 lbs. butterfat.

Louis Knudsen's herd holds the highest average making 961.9 lbs. milk 38.28 lbs. butterfat. A. G. Midtlien's herd holding second with an average of 896 lbs. milk, 37.8 lbs. butterfat.

A few herds that were doing well last month dropped considerably in production due to being turned on grass too early. The decrease was not so marked where grain feeding was continued. Cows producing 1 lb. or more fat daily should receive a good grain ration. Equal parts bran and corn make an economical mixture for cows on grass. This ration would be benefited by the addition of oats but they are rather high at present. From 4 to 6 lbs. daily is usually sufficient for cows producing from 35 to 45 lbs. fat monthly. The amount varies with condition of cows producing under 1 lb. fat daily need not receive grain on good pastures.

Three P. B. Holstein bulls were purchased at the West Salem sale. They are nice straight individuals and have good backing, besides there were three P. B. heifers and one pure bred cow brought into the association. They look like real foundation animals and are a credit to the herds they entered.

The following is a list of a few cows making good records this month. Look 'em over. Many of them freshened last fall and early winter. They are reflecting what good food and care can do.

LA CROSSE WOMAN WILL TALK AT STATE CONVENTION OF COMMERCIAL SECRETARIES

Eleanor E. Whiting, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of La Crosse, will be the only woman speaker on the program at the state convention of commercial secretaries in Antigo, June 6 and 7.

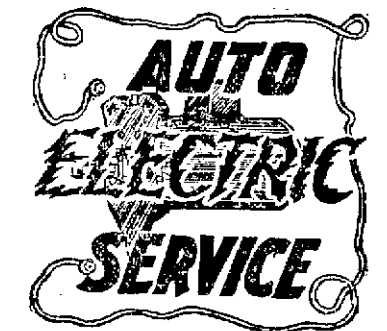

The secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce has always taken part in the program featuring the state convention of commercial secretaries. When the program was arranged for the convention at Antigo it was discovered that the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce was temporarily without a secretary; so Miss Whiting, the assistant secretary was invited to discuss methods employed in membership campaigns. She accepted the assignment and will leave Monday night for Antigo to deliver her address Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Whiting has been assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce since it was organized and is intimately acquainted with the various activities of the organization.

FINISHING TOUCHES PUT ON PLAY FOR MONDAY EVENING

"A Prince There Was" to be Presented at the Normal School

The last finishing touches are being applied today to "A Prince There Was," and the prince will be led forth in all his splendor by members of the senior class of the La Crosse Normal school at the Normal auditorium Monday evening.

Costume and wig for the production arrived from St. Paul yesterday and were in every way in keeping with the rest of the production which promises to be an excellent performance.

As to the play, it is said to be one of the best light comedies produced in the last decade.

Every member of the cast has been working hard and tediously the past two weeks and all have put forth their best efforts towards the best possible rendition of the parts assigned. Mr. Denning of Winona, who is coaching the play, is very well satisfied with the results considering the short space of time the play has been in rehearsal. The final dress rehearsal will be held today.

La Crosse, Wisconsin, June 2nd, 1922.

Mrs. E. W. Hauser, Representative, Bankers Life Company.
Dear Mrs. Hauser:

I wish to express my thanks to yourself and your company for your promptness in paying the claim in the sum of $10,000, under Policy No. 524083, held by my son, Ervin W. Kofta. The policy was taken by my son on January 31st, 1922, in the sum of $5000 on the Life Paid at Age 70 Plan, with Total Disability and Double Indemnity.

As my son met his death in an automobile accident on May 28th, the policy was paid double on account of Double Indemnity for accidental death.

Due to the fact that the accident happened on Sunday and one holiday has elapsed since that time, we certainly feel that three and one-half business days is a wonderful record in promptness for paying a claim. You are at liberty to use this letter in any way it may help you or your Company. Yours very truly,

Invites Eligibles

The local club welcomes cordially all women who are eligible to either form of membership. Article III of the constitution of the College Club of La Crosse, following the constitution of the national organization makes this provision for membership: Section 1. "There shall be national and local members. Any woman eligible to the American Association of University Women may become a national member."

National membership is therefore dependent upon graduation from a college or university which is accredited by the association. Section 2. "Local members shall have had a minimum of one year's academic work in a college or university on the accredited list of the American Association of University Women, or in such colleges or universities as may be added at the discretion of the Board of Directors."

As has been indicated the La Crosse College Club is a branch of the American Association of University Women. This organization held its annual meeting in Kansas City in May and provided in the budget for an Educational Secretary with the intention of getting the best woman procurable, who should have full charge of introducing and promoting the educational policies of the A. A. U. W. The local organization has included in its policy two provisions which specifically state the intention of the college women of La Crosse to participate in the national and local educational movements. These state the purpose of the club to "encourage proper deanship in local schools" and to "assist young women in securing a higher education."

Offer Fellowships

The national organization has the administration of several Fellowships which offer to American college women opportunities for further study and research work in America and abroad. Local branches have established scholarships. What the La Crosse branch's method in carrying out their policy encouraging higher education for women will be has yet to be determined.

The A. A. U. W. is affiliated with the International Federation of University Women to whose last conference fifteen countries sent delegates. The countries represented were the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Czechoslovakia, France, Holland, India, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Australia, Norway, Belgium, Denmark and South Africa. This federation establishes clubs and centers of international hospitality in the cities of the world. There are at present such centers in Washington, National Clubhouse of the American Association of University Women at 1607 H Street, in New York, the Women's University Club at 106 East 52nd street, in London, the Woman's Institute at 92 Victoria street, S. W. 1, in Paris, the clubhouse at 4 rue de Chevreuse, the gift of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid to the International Federation of University Women for a term of years, and in Athens where and for the erection of a hostel was presented by the Greek government. The federation also endows international scholarships and fellowships, co-operates with the national bureaus of international education established in various countries and encourages and organizes the exchange of lecturers and students between universities.

ILLINOIS WALKS OFF WITH WESTERN TRACK MEETING

Iowa Second, Minnesota Third,
and Notre Dame Fourth;
Four Records Broken

100-YARD DASH MARK OF 19 YEARS' STANDING LOWERED

Wisconsin is Sixth, Michigan is Seventh

IOWA CITY, Iowa.—By The Associated Press.—Scoring in thirteen of the sixteen events, the well balanced University of Illinois team repeated its triumph of 1921 in the western conference outdoor track and field championship meet Saturday by winning the meet with an overwhelming total of 59 6-14 points. Iowa was second with 24 1-35 points, Minnesota third with 23 1-10, Notre Dame fourth with 22 13-14, and Ames fifth with 22 points.

Four conference records were smashed, one was tied and Illinois cracked the fifth record in winning the one mile relay race, but the mark was not allowed as the orange and blue team was disqualified for alleged roughness. The race was given to Iowa and the time was withdrawn. The Illinois quartet won the race in 3:20, beating the former record of 3:21 4-5 established by Chicago in 1915.

10 Year Old Record Broken
The conference record for the 100 yard dash, which has stood for 10 years, was shattered when Bill Hayes of Notre Dame, former National A. A. U. dash champion, ran the distance in 9 7-10, beating the former record of 9 4-5 established by C. A. Blair of Chicago in 1905.

Milton Angier of Illinois, holder of the American javelin record, who broke the conference record in the preliminaries Friday with a throw of 196 feet, 4 3-4 inches, set a better record Saturday when he won with a toss of 196 feet 11 inches. Hoffman of Michigan held the former record of 178 feet, 4 inches, made a year ago.

Harold Osborne, Illinois, and Johnny Murphy, Notre Dame, who tied for first place honors in the running high jump, set a new conference record and came close to an American amateur record when they went over the bar at 6 feet 5 1-16 inches. The former conference record of 6 feet 2 3-4 inches was made a year ago by Murphy.

Lloyd Rathbun, of Ames, shattered the record breaking class when he won the two mile race in 9:27, after a thrilling race with Wharton of Illinois at the finish. The former record was 9:29 3-5 made by C. J. Stout of Chicago in 1916.

D. R. Brooks of Iowa, tied the 220 yard low hurdles mark of 23 4-5 in winning that event by a safe margin from Anderson of Minnesota, through a sprint after leaping over the last barrier.

Walter Highest Point Winner
Arthur Walter of Ames, regarded as the best middle distance runner in the Missouri Valley conference, was the highest individual point winner of the day, winning both the 440 and the 880 yard races.

Sixteen teams broke into the table of points. Wisconsin was sixth with 21 16-35; Michigan seventh with 20 3-5; Chicago eighth with 9 3-7; Grinnell ninth with 9 and Ohio State tenth with 8. The remaining points were scattered as follows:
Furduie, 6; Western Michigan State Normal, 4; Butler, 3 3-5; Indiana, 3; Drake, 2; and Northwestern, 1 3-7.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

Here's Your Decision

If a coach standing at third base shall run in direction of the home plate while a fielder is making a play on a batted ball, or a thrown ball, and draws a throw to home base, the runner entitled to third base shall be called out by the umpire because of the coach's interference with or prevention of a legitimate play. For example, if with none out and a runner on third, the batsman hits the ball to the shortstop and on fielding it he notices a player dashing for the plate, believing it to be the runner on third, the fielder throws wildly to the plate, the runner on third then scoring and the batsman reaching second. In such a case the umpire should declare out the runner on third, who had scored and grant the batsman only first base, sending him back to that base from second.

THAT Lange's Milwaukee Red Sox who come here to battle the Nelsons on June 11, the fourth day of the big baseball fest planned in connection with the Luther convention on June 8, 9 and 10, is the strongest aggregation appearing in La Crosse for a number of years is evidenced by the record of the club during last season, in the hands of R. C. Davidson, president of the local club.

Are Lake Shore Champs
The Milwaukee Red Sox, managed by Eddie Stumpf, are Lake Shore champions for the season of 1921, having won forty-one games out of forty-seven played. Among the teams defeated by the Sox last season are included the foremost independent clubs of this section of the country. The Sampson Tractors, Beloit Fairies and Gunthers of Chicago fell before the onslaught of the Lake Shore champions last year.

In addition to the above Lange's Sox won three out of five games from Rube Foster's Giants, the greatest colored aggregation in the world. The club has won five games to date this year.

Name Him Greatest Coach of all Time

THAT Coach A. C. Denny, of this city, graduate of the local Normal course in physical education, three years ago, has been recognized as an able director of athletics with peculiar ability to develop championship teams in various sports is evidenced by the announcement of his acceptance of the post as athletic director and gymnasium instructor at Appleton high school.

Coach Denny for the past three years has been in charge of athletics at Neenah, Wisconsin, and to quote the Neenah Daily News, has "made the greatest record it has ever been the lot of a Neenah high school athletic director to make."

The Neenah Daily News has the following to say of Coach Denny's work:
"Neenah will intermingle gladness and regret over the announcement by Superintendent of Appleton schools Leo C. Kasey, that Coach A. C. Denny of the Neenah high school has been selected by the committee on teachers' appointments to come to Appleton high school next fall there to act as athletic director and gym instructor. The announcement was confirmed in a statement by Coach A. C. Denny today."

"Mr. Denny came to Neenah high school three years ago and made the greatest record it has ever been the lot of a Neenah high school athletic director to make. During his three year stay here he has shown uncanny ability to develop championship teams in basketball, football and track. In his removal to Appleton he will carry with him the well wishes of the whole city, wishing Appleton's good fortune in securing so able a coach but delighted at the thought that Coach Denny has won a deserved promotion."

CAMPAIGN MACHINE SET IN MOTION BY 2 G. O. P. FACTIONS

Complete Lineup of Candidates in the Field for Contest for Party Nominations

LA FOLLETTE OPENS TOUR OF STATE WITHIN NEAR FUTURE

Citizens' Candidates also Plan to Cover Entire State

MADISON, Wis.—Campaign machinery which will carry through the contest within the republican party for nomination of state officers at the September general election primary, was being set under way Saturday by both the La Follette faction and the faction represented by the newly created citizens' republican state conference.

The line-up of candidates already in the field with endorsement of the progressive republican wing of the party and their opponents was completed by the citizens' republican state conference when early Friday morning it completed its selection of a full ticket of state officers.

If the present situation is maintained without further candidates entering the field, Senator Robert M. La Follette will be opposed by Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college. Governor J. J. Blaine will be opposed for re-election by Attorney General William J. Morgan.

John F. Baker, assistant attorney general, representing the citizens' republican conference, will oppose Herman L. Eklund, the progressive republican candidate; Martin R. Paulson, candidate for secretary of state on the conference ticket will run against Fred Zimmerman, the La Follette selection; Riley S. Young, speaker of the assembly, will oppose Lieut. Governor George F. Comings, the progressive republican candidate, for re-election and State Treasurer Henry Johnson will oppose Solomon Levitan.

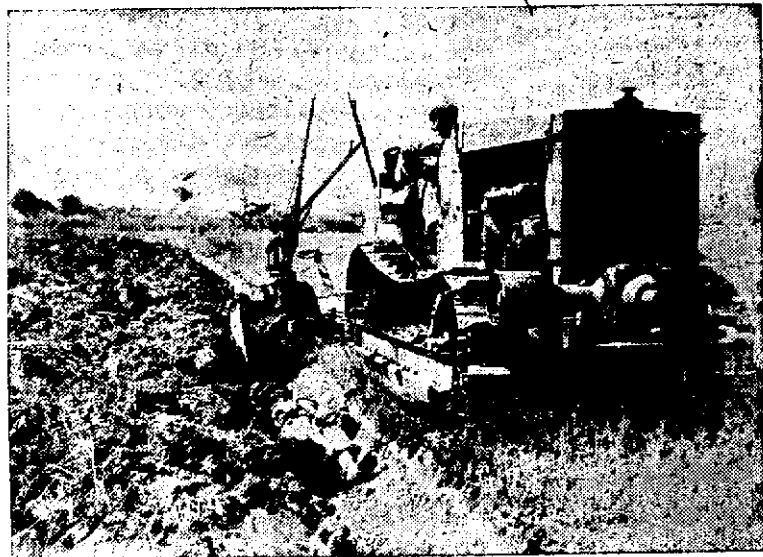

Campaign Officially Open
With the opposing candidates officially in the field and actively seeking the nomination, the primary election campaign is definitely under way.

Followers of Senator La Follette are engaged at present in formulating their platform of principles on which they will appeal to the voters of Wisconsin for support. Announcement of the planks of this statement of principles is expected within the next ten days.

Return of Senator La Follette to open his speaking tour of the state within the next few weeks will set the field campaigning of the faction he represents in full swing. Governor Blaine has already opened his speaking engagements. All candidates of the citizens' republican faction have announced their intention of entering upon their active field campaign just as soon as arrangements can be made. They plan to work together covering the entire state during the next three months.

Denounce La Follette
The platform of the conference adopted at its Milwaukee convention denounced Senator La Follette for his stand on the world war and condemned Governor Blaine for what it

LA CROSSE PLOW WINS IN DEMONSTRATION IN INDIA

La Crosse Plow in India

La Crosse plows are winning renown half way around the earth.

A report of the success of one of the local implements in a demonstration at Jubulpore, India, has just been received by the La Crosse Plow company. The accompanying picture shows the disc plow, with tractor, in operation.

The land in which the trials were made is some of the most difficult in the world and is only exceeded in hardness by certain tracts in Russia.

The plowing done was high class work and all the competitive tractors pulling moldboard plows could not make any job of the land.

Further details were carried out in land which has never been under cultivation since the famine years of 1899 and 1906 and which was infested with "kans" weed. This is a very coarse grass with roots which interlace below the surface from 5 to 12 inches, varying in thickness. This ground cannot be cultivated at all by bullocks.

It is for these tracts that plows are required, and in the Jubulpore district alone there are 160,000 acres of land so infested with this weed that they have been lying idle for years.

Great difficulties were encountered in reaching this ground, the tractor being forced to pass over or around huge holes in the ground, the result of sun cracks and the monsoon washing the earth down.

Some of these holes are six feet deep.

said was abuse of his pardoning power, his failure to prosecute corporations withholding income taxes and his sanction of the use of the capitol building by Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, who served a prison term for violation of the espionage laws during the war. This stand created issues likely to play an important part in the campaign.

"Governor Blaine has charged that through fraud and error income taxes amounting to over $1,000,000 have been withheld. Having the power," the platform of the conference said, "we condemn him for his failure to institute actions to recover taxes fraudulently withheld and the penalties imposed for fraud in making such returns and we call on him to institute such actions."

The platform further said that "we condemn to the very utmost the shameful, un-American act of Gov. J. J. Blaine in permitting the use of the state capitol building for a public speech by Kate Richards O'Hare, who was tried, convicted and served time in a federal prison for gross violation of the espionage act during the war."

"We charge that Senator Robert M. La Follette was not true to his country in the time of its extreme need and peril, that he failed to act when patriotic action was imperative, that by his public utterances and open opposition to participation in the world war he has shown himself unfit to represent Wisconsin. We believe the vital and burning issue of this day and this year in this loyal state of Wisconsin is to efface and forever eliminate the shame and disgrace that became attached to this great commonwealth through the disloyalty of Senator La Follette."

Just what stand the progressive republicans will take in their platform with regard to the issues created by their opponents is not yet known.

Talks With Your Painter

Mr. Smith was one whose business was hit hard by the depression last year and he felt the need of economizing where and when he could. "But," to quote his wife, "our house needed a coat of paint badly. We did not want to pay the price a union shop offered to do the work for, so Mr. Smith hired a man who was painting a neighbor's house, at a considerably lower figure. On Saturday afternoon I was sitting near an open window when a man I knew to be employed in a union paint shop came along and stopped to talk with our painter, with whom he seemed well acquainted.

"You are putting that on pretty thick, are you not?" I heard him ask.

"I should worry," was the answer, "it will stay on till I get my money, and I am going to do carpenter work with my uncle next week."

"We didn't save any money, for we had to have the house repainted this spring, and this time the painter carried a union card."

SWEDISH GOVERNMENT TO DONATE FARMS TO ITS UNEMPLOYED MEN

Plan for Establishing Jobless on the Land Now Being Worked Out

STOCKHOLM.—Before long the Swedish unemployed may have a change to become independent farmers. When they recently expressed the desire to obtain small farms of their own without being subjected to enforced idleness, their request sounded at first like wishing for the moon. But not so to the Minister of Agriculture, who immediately ordered an investigation into the possibilities of forming a farm colony in the province of Snodermanland. If the plan is found feasible the government may purchase land to be parceled among its unemployed. The project would of course involve more than acquiring the land. The government will have to build cottages on the farms, and supply its indigent citizens with live stock, farm implements and living expenses for the first year.

The farm project is one of the most important and interesting of many attempts for relieving the unemployment troubles of the country. Last winter several thousand jobless were given instruction in almost any branch of learning in which they were interested. Large appropriations were set aside for doles and for public works at which the otherwise unemployed would be able to earn a living wage, and it was hoped that conditions would soon become better. Nevertheless, unemployment is still the most serious problem of Sweden despite a slight decrease in the number of idle.

The jobless still number more than 150,000, of whom about 65,000 receive aid. The number is higher than was expected and in order to keep within the budget, the Unemployment Commission and the government have had to cancel during the summer unemployment aid to unmarried men and women, all farmworkers and fishermen. It is believed that these classes can shift for themselves during the summer and pick up enough work to keep them going. Married men with families still draw stipends, while relief work of all kinds is being planned.

The Unemployment Commission is laying plans for extensive forest work in cooperation with the Forestry Board and the State Domains Department. Furthermore about $200,000 has been diverted from the unemployment fund for buying paving stones to be placed at the disposal, free of cost, of certain towns and highway boards for the improvement of streets and roads, thus affording employment to considerable numbers.
